Let's Get Started: AGROS Project Kick-off Meeting

On the 21 December 2020, the kick-off meeting of the AGROS project took place. The project idea started to be developed and the application was prepared before the Covid-19 pandemic took hold, but the approval for funding was received when the changes in working and meeting patterns had already become part of our daily routines. So, it is not surprising that the first meeting took place remotely. However, the meeting maintained the agenda typical of this type of events. First of all, the project partners got to know each other: each one presented his/her organization and the potential contribution to the project. After this, the project coordinator then talked about each aspect of the project individually, outlining a precise plan for the implementation of the project, discussing the responsibilities of each partner. The AGROS project is built on 3 outcomes:

IO1 – The AGROS Courses

IO2 – The Training and Adaptation Handbook

IO3 – The Best Practices and Policy Book

Other managerial aspects of project implementation are integral and also very important in achieving results: financial management, quality assurance and management, dissemination, qualitative and quantitative impact indicators.

We all hope that this productive meeting will be a good start of the project and this positive energy will lead us during the whole project implementation period nevertheless all the challenges which are waiting us in the period of 2 years.
